

Quarter Closeout Assignment

1. Pick an assignment that you think represents your best work. On an index card, list the assignment name, the grade you received, and why it represents quality work (three sentences minimum). Also, choose at least one item from the list below to describe your work on this assignment and explain. Put your advisor's name on the card and highlight it. Staple the notecard to the assignment and turn it in.

This piece of work demonstrates that I can:

- Take risks
- Persevere
- Collaborate
- Use a writing process
- Participate in discussion
- Support ideas with evidence or reasons
- Organize related ideas
- Write using a variety of sentence structures
- Use effective spelling strategies
- Self-edit

Other:

2. Compile all the work you have done this quarter and organize it by assignment type. When you are called upon to meet with me, you will need to show me all the quarter's dialogue calendars, SSR journals, vocabulary work, assignment handouts, and all assignments that were handed back to you.

3. Fill out a new Reader's Goal Setting sheet by checking off three goals you will attempt to meet this quarter. On the back, write out a specific plan for meeting each goal.
